

IBM's ECM Powered by ClearObject

Our Services

IBM's Enterprise Content Management (ECM) Powered by ClearObject brings content collaboration to the cloud, making management of records, document capture, and information lifecycle governance more secure and efficient. You receive all the benefits of ECM without having to manage the system.

With ECM Powered by ClearObject, all of your company's data (related to organizational process) will be captured, managed, stored, preserved and, eventually, visualized in a way that allows you to gain maximum value from the data. Folding content management into your organization structure allows your company to become more efficient and more effective, changing the way you can do business and deliver your product.

ECM Powered by ClearObject is primarily comprised of our two main offerings:

IBM Content Foundation delivers full content lifecycle and document management, promoting ECM adoption across your organization. It was designed to offer improved control over both new and existing types of content with scalability, security, stability, mobility and cross-platform capabilities.

IBM Case Manager focuses on designing and deploying solutions that help users gather the right content and apply analytics faster for more accurate decisions, leading to better business outcomes.
